

DILLINGER SURROUNDED AFTER SHOOTING 2 OFFICERS; WISCONSIN GUARDSMEN CALLED TO AID IN CAPTURE

NEW WAGE SCALE FOR COAL INDUSTRY GIVEN BY JOHNSON

South's Differentials Are Partly Restored in Alabama, Southwestern States, Southern Tennessee But Not in Kentucky

TWO NEW STRIKES IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Walkouts Involving 10,000 Workers Ordered in Body, Auto Factions in Cleveland, St. Louis.

By the Associated Press.
A new wage structure for the soft coal industry, in part restoring differentials in miners' pay for Alabama,
southwestern states and southern Tennessee was proclaimed by Hugh S.
Johnson, NRA administrator, yesterday even as new labor troubles flared
in other industries.

Along with the announcement of the new wage set up for the soft coal industry in Washington, came a personal request from President Roosevelt that striking miners, numbering nearly 50,000, return peacefully to their jobs.

As these developments brought hope for a conclusion of the controversies
in the coal fields, however, a strike of 8,100 employees of the St. Louis Chevrolet and Fisher body plants was called yesterday by the executive committee of the Federated Automobile Workers of America.

John G. Bostwick, president of the international automobile workers' organization, said the decision to strike grew out of the refusal of the companies to re-employ 118 men, most of whom had been active in union affairs.

At the same time, James P. Mc-Weeny, American Federation of Labor organizer and president of the Cleveland Metal Trades Council, announced that a strike of 7,000 men
at the Fisher body plant at Cleveland,
Ohio, would begin at 7 a. m. today.

The union seeks wage agreements and recognition, McWeeny said. The strike climaxes ten months of unrest
at the plant.

In the Alabama coal fields, meanwhile, mobilization of additional troops was ordered for patrol duty until normal conditions can be restored in the area where violence has flared within the past week.

Precautionary steps were reported at the Acmar and Margaret mines of the Alabama Fuel and Iron Company, where it was rumored that strikers' demonstrations were planned today.

In addition to these developments,
word came from Washington that railroad labor and managers were maneuvering behind the scenes to see which side would make the first move to settle their wage dispute. This jockeying for position was described as a result of the definite collapse of President Roosevelt's effort to bring accord through mediation efforts by the railroad co-ordinator, Joseph B.
Egan.

The wage set up for miners in the Alabama coal fields under today's NRA order was $3.80 per day as compared with the old wage scale of $3.40
and the March 31 amendment scale of $4.00 under which Alabama operators had protested their industry would suffer. The order fixed the scale for Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania.

Navy Takes Canal Zone But Siege Is Peaceful

PANAMA CITY, Panama, April 22.—(AP)—Some 10,000 white-clad sailors of the United States fleet completed a "peaceful occupation"
of the Canal Zone today.

On shore leave after yesterday's final destructive "warfare" ending joint army and navy maneuvers,
sailors left the fleet at anchorage
and swarmed through the city.

The "war" was called off at noon
yesterday, both fleet attacking
forces and army defense units
agreeing that much material damage had been done by swooping
planes, flaming guns and swiftly
moving battleships.

Theoretically, the aircraft carrier Lexington was sunk, either by submarines temporarily attached to the defense forces or by bombing planes which shot out from France
field.

While attacking planes from the fleet flew over the Canal Zone,
the German cruiser Karlsruhe was sunk through from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

U. S. CORPORATION TO HOLD CONTROL OF FARM COLONIES

Group Now Being Shaped
Under Relief Administration To Handle Subsistence Work.

By J. H. JENKINS.
(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)
A federal corporation is being formed to control co-operative farm communities for the benefit of stranded populations.

The corporation, set up under the emergency relief administration, not only will establish a uniform policy
for these communities, but will "lend"
live stock and tools to share croppers,
tenant farmers and others.

Lawrence Westbrook, former Texas relief administrator, is working out the plans for the co-operative communities which will be similar to the subsistence homestead projects directed by the public works administration.
Thousands of acres have been offered
the government as gifts or at nominal
prices for the farm communities.

Most of the projects—designed to care for people stranded in cities, oil fields and coal fields, who have some agricultural background—will follow
the general outline of the Woodlake
community opened in Trinity county,
Texas, by Texas Rural Communities, a corporation.

Westbrook said today that the projects were being planned primarily to provide work opportunities rather than relief. In no instance will gifts be made, he said. Whatever is received eventually will have to be paid
back to the government in Trinity county,
Texas, by Texas Rural Communities, a corporation.

The Texas project was worked out by the Texas relief administration and placed into operation last Christmas, when 100 families were moved from Houston. Each of these families was provided with three acres of land and house costing $1,800. The settlement is in two units a short distance apart.
The project is expected to amortize itself in 15 years.

Work for Selves.
"We are not trying to do all of the thinking for these unfortunate people," Westbrook said. "We are trying to give them an opportunity.
They'll accomplish for themselves
what we could in the long run.
I think that we who plan, often plan too much. We are trying to make it as simple as possible."

"Somebody is feeling our way at the present time. We are giving the states full leeway to develop procedure. People who are already on land should not be relieved of their land. We are helping them get off relief. Instead of direct relief, we would rather provide facilities to aid them in making a living."

The far credit administration will advance money for equipment. But some of these people haven't enough assets to get a loan. We are providing the cushion to get him into position to become a contributing citizen instead of a ward."

Farmers To Receive Billion In U. S. Payments During '34

Farm Administration, With $200,000,000
Used, Is Only Beginning To Approach
Full Spending Stride.

By STEPHEN McDONOUGH.
WASHINGTON, April 22.—(AP)—
American farmers, already enriched
by nearly $200,000,000, will pocket
$1,000,000,000 in benefit payments before the end of 1934.

On analysis of expenditures to be made by the farm administration during the present year in wheat, wheat, corn, hog, cotton, tobacco, and dairy reduction program indicates that it has only begun to approach its spending stride.

Up to April 1 the administration had paid out $179,702,685 to farmers who agreed to reduce their cotton, wheat, and tobacco acreage. Benefit payments to corn and hog farmers are just beginning to trickle out, the dairy program is in its formative stages, tobacco farmers have received only a portion of the money coming to them,
and the second payment to wheat
farmers is yet to be made.

The payments do not include the $33,648,826 spent by the administration in purchasing pork, wheat, and dairy products for relief needs to eliminate surpluses and remove them as price-depressing factors from the market.

In the next eight months the administration will continue purchasing pork, wheat, and dairy products. It will make drastic surplus-reduction purchases of dairy products, and will enter the beef cattle market for the first time to make unestimated purchases for relief needs.

In addition the administration will purchase and destroy diseased dairy cows, total of $5,000,000 is provided in the Jones-Connally act for this purpose with the possibility that additional funds may be expended.

Wheat, tobacco, cotton, including options held by growers, $179,702,685;
dairy, $150,000,000; corn loans, $111-250,000; cotton loans, $110,000,000.
The distribution of money by sections of the country will be approximately as follows: Midwestern states, $40-50,000,000; eastern states, $40-
$50,000,000; southern states, $34-40,000, $50; western states, $68-71,914.

A marked increase in benefit payments to corn-hog farmers this month and the money yet to be paid to wheat and tobacco farmers will swell
total expenditures to about $318,232-115 by April 30.

Every hog, tobacco, and cotton payments for other periods have been allocated approximately as follows:
From May 1 to July 30, $205,586-
065; from August 1 to November 15, $194,100,680; from November 16 to February 28, 1935, $179,872,540.

PARIS AGAIN LANDS BLOW TO EFFORTS FOR DISARMAMENT

Italian Envoy Meets With
No Success in Attempt To Compromise Differences.

By the Associated Press.
Disarmament, hanging on the ropes
for months, was delivered another telling punch in Paris yesterday during a Franco-Italian discussion.

Premier Gaston Doumergue reiterated to Fulvio Sivich, Mussolini's traveling spokesman, France's refusal to approve German rearmament or restrict her own while military preparations are going on across the border.

France also is against four-power discussions, favored by Italy, insisting that negotiations be taken to the League of Nations, from which Germany has divorced herself.

Sivich left Paris for London, where he will begin conversations today.
The critical armaments impasse between Berlin and Paris apparently will be the fundamental subject of the Italo-British talks, with Japan's new warfare to western powers to keep their hands off China apparently resulting in second place.

Meanwhile, Louis Barthou, French
foreign minister, arrived in Warsaw on a trip intended to strengthen his country's defensive alliances in eastern Europe. He also will visit Czechoslovakia.

SITUATION IS HOPELESS.
FRENCH STAND INDICATES
PARIS, April 22.—(AP)—The hopelessness of further efforts to disarm
Europe were indicated today by Fulvio Sivich, Italian under-secretary for foreign affairs, in an hour's talk with Premier Gaston Doumergue.

Sivich said that "legalistic" rearmament
of Germany or to undertake to restrict her own military strength
under such circumstances was reiterated before Sivich proceeded to London for an attempt to find a way out of the deadlock.

Paris is standing firmly by its position and declines to discuss Mus-solini's ultimatum scheme or other plans, Doumergue indicated, except at Geneva, where Germany has shown no intention of returning.

Consequently, France is strengthening her "defensive" alliances, for which purpose Louis Barthou, foreign minister, has gone to Warsaw and Prague.

LAST DESPERATE HOPE
LINGERING IN LONDON
LONDON, April 22.—(AP)—Hopes of curbing the European armaments race and relieving the increased tension between France and Germany tonight were pinned desperately to Anglo-Italian conversations to be inaugurated here tomorrow by Mussolini's envoy, Fulvio Sivich, foreign undersecretary.

The new Japanese declaration of
policy, threatening activities of western powers in China, is expected to occupy the talks between Sivich and
British ministers to a lesser degree.

They will discuss all international problems from which Italy has been excluded, and Italy, it was announced.
No engagements were made for Sivich this evening, after his arrival from Paris, but tomorrow morning he will begin a series of interviews with Prime Minister MacDonald, Sir John
Simon, foreign secretary, and Captain
Anthony Eden, lord privy seal.

A more aggressive attitude by Italy toward Great Britain is expected to be directed toward the Japanese manifesto. Italy's concern over what its responsible leaders have openly described as a Japanese menace to the western world is attributed here to Japanese-Italian friction in Abyssinia
as well as Asia.

Both Italian and Sivich have been plain spoken in criticizing Japan,
which was attacked most recently in connection with the introduction of the armaments race.
England will be inclined to soft-pedal the Japanese problem, it was learned authoritatively.

Laura Ingalls Finishes 16,000-Mile Air Trip

MIAMI, Fla., April 22.—(AP)—
Laura Ingalls, Brooklyn aviatrix, was "back home and glad of it"
today with the achievement of her goal—the distinction of being the first American woman to fly the Andes solo.

She arrived here at 11 a. m. to complete with a short hop from Havana the 16,000-mile aerial tour
of Central and South America which she began in Miami on March 8. Miss Ingalls said she probably would continue homeward tomorrow.

The New York flier, who crossed 2 countries during her absence from the United States, found the spanning of the Andes, from Santiago, Chile, to Buenos Aires, Argentina, the "most thrilling" flight.
Flying at the altitude of 18,000 feet for miles, Miss Ingalls had to resort to oxygen for artificial respiration during the hazardous crossing.

DIRIGIBLE MACON SPANS CONTINENT, ARRIVES AT MIAMI

Giant Airship Moored
After Circling Above
Florida City for Two Hours.

MIAMI, Fla., April 22.—(AP)— Completing across-country flight from Sunnyvale, Cal., the navy dirigible
Macon arrived here late today to participate in fleet maneuvers in Caribbean waters.

The giant airship was lashed to the Opa Locka mast at 7:12 p. m. (E.
S. T.) or within 20 minutes after the Macon had settled down above the field for the mooring.

The Macoon settled down to its mooring, after a two-hour flight over the city.

Officers said the trip was uneventful, and that the Macoon performed perfectly.

Under present plans, the dirigible
will remain here for three weeks.

Start Delayed.
Waiting until its commander, A. H.
Dresel, was certain of favorable
weather conditions, the Macoon cast off from its Sunnyvale, Calif., base
at 3:35 a. m. (Pacific standard time), Friday morning, April 20, for the longest flight undertaken by the giant airship since its transcontinental
crossing from Lakehurst to Sunnyvale
last October.

It sailed southward to Los Angeles,
turned eastward into Arizona, passed without incident over New Mexico
but altered its course slightly east of
last October.

The new Japanese declaration of
policy, threatening activities of western powers in China, is expected to
occupy the talks between Sivich and
British ministers to a lesser degree.

to the Grandview hospital here early today. Their names or the extent of their injuries was not available immediately.

The men were brought here in an automobile following the skirmish
with Dillinger near Rhinelander.
They were taken to an operating room.

RHINELANDER, Wis., April 23.
(AP)—(Monday)—After shooting their way out of a resort and beer tavern near here late last night, leaving two federal agents lying wounded in their wake, outlaws, identified as John Dillinger and two companions were surrounded in a wooded area near Mercer, Wis., about 40 miles northwest of here.

National guardsmen here were called upon for help and the sheriff's office at Eagle River dispatched all available help from that point.

During the gun fight which occurred at Little Bohemia, near here, a man and a woman fled in a green Packard sedan. Others of the outlaw crew got away in a Ford V-8 auto equipped with a spotlight.

Warnings to officials in the northern Wisconsin and Minnesota districts had gone out from Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., late last week on the theory that Dillinger, reputed to be the most dangerous desperado of the decade,
and his quick-firing lieutenant, Harold "Doc" Barker, would traverse the upper peninsula of Michigan and seek to return to their old hideout in Chicago.

The government operatives said that the men then stated their belief that the hunted men would go through upper Minnesota or Wisconsin and speed south toward Chicago.

The gunmen were armed with machine guns and rifles and were equipped with bullet-proof vests.

Earlier Sunday, a car answering
the general description of the outlaws'
machine was reported sighted around Escanaba, Mich.

Both Dillinger and Hamilton were regarded as capable of putting up a desperate defense of their marked lives, in spite of the fact that Mrs.
Steve told officers Hamilton suffered from a shoulder wound received in an undisclosed skirmish and that the jail-breaking Dillinger was shot in the leg while attempting his way out of a trap in St. Paul.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., April 22.—(AP)—David L. Luke, a leading paper manufacturer of the east and president of the Western Paper and Paper Co., died Saturday night at his home, "Hawthorne."

He had previously shown no sign of ill health and had been going to his office as usual.

Surviving are his widow, the former Bessie C. Anderson, and seven children, David L. Luke Jr., of Scarborough, Me.; M. L. Luke, of New York; Mr. Charles Hilliard, of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. Arthur Langden, of New York; William L. Luke II, of Covington, Va.; Alexander M. Luke, of Charleston, S. C.; and James L. Luke, of Cleveland.

On April 8 The Constitution published its first Atlanta wholesalers and manufacturers rotogravure page, telling to the trade of the southeast the many advantages of buying from Atlanta wholesalers and manufacturers. This rotogravure feature created wide interest among the merchants in the southeast, and by Atlanta wholesalers and manufacturers.

Whatever the merchant of the southeast need—ready-to-wear, drapery, hats, notions, dry goods, notions, clothing, furnishings, jewelry, undergarments, neckwear, store fixtures, color printing, or anything for the modern store, if the merchants buy from Atlanta wholesalers and manufacturers they will get honest and fast-selling merchandise, without fear of getting inferior quality.

For quick, prompt deliveries—for quality merchandise, for variety of assortment, for economy of prices, for low transportation rates—BUY FROM ATLANTA WHOLESALERS AND MANUFACTURERS.

The second prize of $15 was awarded to E. B. Van Meter and Dress Shop, Buford, Ga. The article follows:

The advantages of buying from Atlanta wholesalers and manufacturers are many. They are the factories.

Statistics will show the business gain that has been made in the past year is larger in the southern states than any other section of America. An important factor in this gain is the service rendered to the trade by Atlanta manufacturers and wholesalers. The trade should further add to the prosperity of this section by increasing their business with Atlanta manufacturers and wholesalers. By so doing they will also increase their own business and profits.

NEGRO SUSPECT HUNTED BY POSSE

Shot Intended for Garage-
man Kills Harrison Man.
Negro Eludes Police.

HARRISON, Ga., April 22.—(AP)—A negro who shot a white man to death last night, was hunted by a posse of officers and citizens today. The negro, officers said, killed John New after an argument with New's brother over a garage bill. When the negro drew a pistol to shoot the brother, Buford New, ducked, and the bullet struck John New in the right ear, killing him instantly, authorities said they were informed.

OLD FOLKS LIKE THIS LAXATIVE

Tired, slow-functioning, eliminative organs need the "full" action, prompt, easy movement given by Fenn-a-mint, the delightful-tasting chewing gum laxative that contains a laxative ingredient regularly prescribed by physicians. Old folks especially need modern Fenn-a-mint, because, by chewing the laxative is distributed uniformly into the system and thus does not shock, irritate, or strain. Prompt, thorough-acting Fenn-a-mint, while pleasant to take, contains no richness to upset your stomach or diet. Work-hardened old folks like Fenn-a-mint because its more modern action eliminates any necessity of experiencing that delay that starts poisons seeping into the system. "Delay" is dangerous—chew Fenn-a-mint for constipation. 15c and 30c at drugists everywhere.

Harvey, Smith Leave Milledgeville "To Go in Peace and Sin No More"

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 22.—(AP)—Leland Harvey and Aubrey Smith, teammates in numerous crimes and in prison breaks, stepped from the state prison as free men today, saved from life terms in prison by pardons of Governor Eugene Talmadge.

Out into the bright sunshine of an April morning, the two men walked from the prison with the well-wishes of prison officers who asked that they be pardoned, and with the admonition of Governor Talmadge that they "go in peace and sin no more."

It was five years to the day they began serving sentences of more than 100 years each.

Pardons for the two were announced a few days ago by Governor Talmadge, who said they had no incentive to do right with such long sentences hanging over them, and that their robberies had netted them only a few hundred dollars and that the men were not killers. The governor said that bankers who "beat widows

GEORGIA POLITICS REFUSES TO BOIL

Lack of Candidates Presages Summer of Rare Quietude for Stumps.

By L. A. FARRELL.

Two years ago during the last week in April, Georgia's political pot was boiling as it never boiled before. Candidates were running and running fast for the United States senate, the governorship and all other statehouse offices. The "ins" were being lambasted terrifically by the "outs" and on all sides there was a general feeling of contest. The spirit of do or die was in the air. The politicians had a great time with each other and the people looked on with interest and enjoyment.

It's a great change for two years but as each day passes it looks like there isn't going to be any campaign at all this year. The "ins" for the most part, appear to be sitting securely in their seats. They are no ambitious "outs" looking for a great year for the people who like to watch political fights. There is a broad smile on the face of nearly every officeholder, but the people who find amusement interesting themselves in campaigns are going to have to take up some other diversion this summer.

The secretary of the state democratic committee, Miss Eleanor Orr, of Newnan, has found things so dull in her office at the capitol that she has had to bring a sister in from Newnan to keep her company. Saturday, with only two weeks remaining in which candidates for quality can be a single entry was filed and not an entrance fee was paid during the entire day. Only one state official, Commissioner of Agriculture C. C. Adams, has qualified opposition.

The quiet was even reflected in the hog and cattle market. Usually in political year the hog and hog, prospects of lots of speaking and lots of barbecues, rises in April and May, but Saturday's reports showed the market quiet, steady and prices unchanged.

Some observers attributed the significant quiet to the domination of Governor Eugene Talmadge, whose reputation without competition becomes more of a certainty as days go by. They point out that in the last two years the governor has just about assumed control of every state office by one means or another and that the people are pretty well satisfied with his conduct of office and not concerned whether it is John Smith or Bill Jones who holds the reins of government. There could possibly be only one issue—Talmadge—and the Talmadge supporters are so sure in the majority that they realize the uselessness of an effort. All one hears is "just wait until 1938."

Generally speaking, those who love campaigns, Saturday were turning their attention to local races, even here they found little to interest them. For the most part candidates for the senate and house of representatives are Talmadge supporters and there appeared no doubt that a legislature predominantly committed to the Talmadge policies would be elected. The only interest remained in personalities and not in issues.

Even the prospect of a contest for the post of commissioner of agriculture, for which Mr. Adams, Columbus Roberts, of Columbus, and Senator J. T. Rife, of Elberton, have qualified causes little interest. The last legislature and budget cuts have so reduced the appropriation of the agricultural department that it doesn't amount to much any more, it being just about overshadowed by the activities of the federal department of agriculture, the A. A. compulsory cotton control and the extension division of the University of Georgia.

Girls' Camp Founder To Attend Rally for Parents in Atlanta

ATHENS, Ga., April 22.—Fifteen years ago a little Athens girl became jealous of summer camping trips her brother was enjoying every year, up in the north Georgia mountains, with their father. Today that same girl, now one of the greatest educators in child conduct in the south, holder of many college degrees and possessor of invaluable experience, head of the nursery school department at the University of Georgia and field organizer in Georgia for nursery school projects in co-operation with the state department of education and the federal government, is herself recognized as one of the leading educators of girl's summer camps in the country.

She is Miss Frances Forbes, daughter of W. T. Forbes, superintendent of the Athens "Y" camp near Tallulah Falls, every summer, and herself director of Camp Chattahoochee, a camp for girls.

On Saturday next Miss Forbes will meet Atlanta parents and girls at Camp Chattahoochee, to be held at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 2 o'clock. Motion pictures of the camp will be shown while some of the girls who were at the camp last summer will tell their experiences. Parents of campers will also speak. But the main attraction will be Frances Forbes, the director.

W. T. Forbes still tells the story how, in 1919, his young daughter, Frances, came to him saying she was just as much his child as her brother, Walter, and she wanted to go camping, too, to sleep on the ground, swim

GEORGIA PIGEON SHOW FOR PRODUCTS EXHIBIT

New Feature for Lakewood
Park Recovery Festival
Announced.

Significance of the Georgia Products Exposition and the "First of Four" which opens at Lakewood Park Saturday grow today when plans were completed for a Georgia pigeon, poultry, and rabbit show which will take up the entire agriculture building at the Southeastern Fair grounds.

With John P. Frasch, superintendent of the agricultural exhibits at the Southeastern Fair in charge, preparations for the second large display of Georgia products have begun, President Mike Benton, of the fair association announced.

The pigeon show will round out the exhibit program, with only a few spaces remaining unsold for the exposition, which will be staged in the large automobile building. Negotiations already are under way and contracts for spaces still available will be closed within the next two days, it was announced. Colonel W. B. Hutchinson, of Albany, chairman of the exhibition committee, will arrive in Atlanta today to take charge of the final week's preparations for Georgia's first big event of this kind.

With only Georgia birds entered, the pigeon show will be sponsored by the Atlanta Pigeon club, of which W. Kenneth Stringer is president, and will assemble representatives of more than a dozen breeds of the bird. It will be unusually attractive at this season of the year, Mr. Stringer pointed out, since this is the time when public interest is greatest in the birds.

Among breeds to be shown are Maltese, Fantails, Moderns, Silver Kings, Carnations, Show Homers, Pouter, Racing Homers, Hungarians, and White Kings. Exhibitors who already have planned to send birds to the "Georgia Show" include Mr. Stringer, J. H. Higgins, J. Roy Turner, Irving de Garis, Turner Collins, president of the Southeastern Associated Pigeon clubs, Gene Steinhauer, Dr. George Stevenson, Garrett Warner, C. E. Evans, W. R. Jordan, Dr. Dean Candler, and the Cascade Pigeon Farms.

Meanwhile, with exhibitors from all parts of the state preparing displays for shipping here in time for the opening Saturday, work at decorating the park and repairing and painting buildings will go forward today. President Benton has overlooked no detail of preparation and has completed his program of entertainment for the eight-day festival for announcement within a few days. In addition to the regular program of sports, vaudeville shows and the midway attractions, an "All-Georgia Show" will be held as a part of the products exposition, and Kenneth Murdock, of the American Legion, is enlisting an imposing array of Georgia entertainment stars for the program, to be staged daily in the exposition building.

One of the highlights of the exposition will be a public wedding, with numerous gifts of Georgia products going to the bride and groom.

The week will be climaxed with the crowning of a Georgia beauty as "Queen of the Festival."

Rev. W. Herschel Ford, pastor of the Broadway Baptist church, of Knoxville, Tenn., is assisting the pastor of Capitol Avenue Baptist church in a meeting series which began Sunday and will continue through May 6. Services are held at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily.

'MODEL SHOWS' OPEN SEASON AT LAKEWOOD

The world's largest portable amusement park will be on view at the Lakewood park fair grounds when the "America's Model Shows" pitch their tents, shows and riding devices on the midway at the coming Georgia Products Recovery Exposition starting next Saturday and continuing until Sunday, May 6, afternoon and nights, inaugurating a "fiesta de fun." The event is being sponsored by the directors of the Southeastern Fair Association and the American Legion. "America's Model Shows" enjoys the prestige of being the largest and greatest of the touring organizations. In opening the outdoor amusement season in this city, they will present 20 high-class midway shows and 12 of the latest rides. Among the attractions are several European importations as well as some new American ideas in show attractions. "Caricature," a brand-new show, is the most pretentious of the many attractions. An elaborate canvas theater is the setting with beautiful drapes and atmospheric settings, gorgeous costumes and special lighting effects. "Ray-Nell," a sensational fan dance, direct from the Chicago World's Fair, is assisted by a bevy of beautiful girls and Argentinian orchestra. "The African Pygmies," direct from the Belgian Congo and exhibited last summer at the Chicago World's Fair, will be another notable attraction, with Judge Dan Brewer contributing an interesting lecture, concerning these "missing links" between the anthropoid and the human race.

Feature at Georgia Has Laurel and Hardy

Stan Laurel, with his side-splitting, eyebrow-raising partner, Oliver Hardy, will be seen in the new comedy, "Sons of the Desert," at the Georgia Theater today. Assisted by a notable cast including Charles Chase, a star in his own right, Mae Busch, Dorothy Christy and Lucien Littlefield, a situation of wife deception is turned into a picture that ably clothes the mirth-provoking antics of the stellar comedy team. Stan and Oliver find that even though they have sworn to attend a convention of their lodge in a distant city, they are seduced by the pugnacious and affectionate of Hardy's wife. A serious illness is invented by the boys, and Laurel is commissioned to find a doctor who will prescribe a trip to Honolulu as the only sure cure. The doctor turns out to be a veterinarian, but so ably does he assist the boys that they are soon on their way to the "Sons of the Desert" gathering. The film reaches a climax that would make a red riot look like a Sunday school picnic. Added features are a Vinton Barnett comedy, a cartoon featuring Bozo the Pup, and Pathe News.

DURABLE GOODS GROUP CRITICIZES STOCK BILL

Big Employers Demand Relaxation of Rules To Revive Business.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—(UP)—A fresh demand that the stock market bill and the securities act be relaxed, so that "a real business recovery" might be achieved, was made tonight by representatives of the durable goods industry, which employs 50 per cent of the American industrial workers.

The house is expected to vote of the stock market bill this week and the senate next week. Unless vital sections of the bills are amended on the floor of the house or senate, a lengthy conference may be required because the house and senate committees have reported bills that differ widely.

The house bill sets a 45 per cent minimum margin for buyers of securities; the senate bill makes no margin requirement. The senate bill calls for creation of a board of five to regulate margins and administer other controls established by the bill.

Letter Revealed. A special committee created by the durable goods industry made public tonight a letter sent to code authorities, code committees and all employers in the industry. The letter, which is being blocked, "by the presence of laws which choke the flow of money and credit into business."

Five suggestions were made in connection with the stock market bill: "1. The scope should be limited to the proper regulation of securities exchanges and the correction of speculative abuses on such exchanges."

"2. It should not include the regulation of securities which are not registered on a securities exchange."

"3. The bill should not include the regulation of business, large and small, or the ownership of their securities."

"4. Companies issuing securities should be required to furnish only such information as may be reasonably necessary for the protection of investors and should be protected against the disclosure of private information not actually required for the purpose."

"5. Officers, directors and stockholders of all companies should not be subjected to unjustifiable liabilities for civil suits for damages and unusual and excessive criminal punishments."

Changes. The committee recommended these changes in the 1933 securities act: "1. Companies issuing securities should be relieved from the excessive burden of cost, incident to the act, beyond those reasonably necessary for the information and protection of investors."

"2. Officers, directors and technical advisers of companies issuing securities and the underwriters of their securities in the same should be relieved from usual and excessive liabilities for civil suits and criminal penalties."

"3. The act should be amended to provide for the relief of companies from the excessive burden of cost, incident to the act, beyond those reasonably necessary for the information and protection of investors."

"4. The act should be amended to provide for the relief of companies from the excessive burden of cost, incident to the act, beyond those reasonably necessary for the information and protection of investors."

"5. The act should be amended to provide for the relief of companies from the excessive burden of cost, incident to the act, beyond those reasonably necessary for the information and protection of investors."

Love and Letters Of Charles Dickens

had broken with Dickens, she was in her middle forties. Dickens then was perhaps the most famous author in the world. He replied immediately. The first of his replies, which was published some years ago in the book called "The Romance of Charles Dickens," by Maria Beadnell Winter, follows:

"As I was reading by my fire last night a handful of notes was laid on my desk. . . . I let them lie there and went back to my book. But I found my mind curiously disturbed and wandering away through so many years to such early times in my life that I was quite perplexed to account for it. . . . So I turned them over again and suddenly the remembrance of your hand came upon me with an influence that I cannot express to you. Three or four and 20 years vanished like a dream and I opened it with the touch of my young friend, David, who has provided for me in the future."

"He was something so busy, so pleasant in your letter—true and cheerful and frank and affectionate—that I read on with perfect delight until I came to your mention of your two little girls. In the unsettled state of my thoughts the existence of these dear children appeared such a prodigious phenomenon that I was inclined to suspect myself of being out of my mind, until it occurred to me that perhaps I had nine children of my own. (One of Dickens' 10 children had died.)"

"Believe me you cannot more tenderly remember our old days and our old friends than I do. Your letter is more touching to me from its good and gentle association with the state of spring, in which I was either much more wise, or much more foolish, than I am now—I never know which to think it—than I could tell you if I tried for a week. I will not try at all."

Much Moved By Letter.

"I heartily respond to it and shall be charmed to have a long talk with you and most cordially glad to see you after all this length of time. . . . My dear Mrs. Winter, I have been much moved by your letter and the pleasure it has given me has some little sorrowful ingredient in it. . . . You so belong to the days when the qualities that have done me the most good were growing in my boyish heart that I cannot deny my answer to you lightly. The associations my memory was with you makes your letter more to me a word—invest it with a more immediate address to me than such a letter could have from anybody else."

(Editor's Note: In this correspondence of their middle years, Dickens and Maria Beadnell Winter talk of a meeting. It is referred to in the following letter, published in "The Romance of Charles Dickens and Maria Beadnell Winter.")

"At first, I a little hesitated whether or no to advise you to forego that interview or suggest another—principally because what would be very natural and probable a fortnight hence, seems scarcely so probable now. Still I should very much like to see you before we meet when others are by. I feel as if it were so necessary to our being at ease—and unless I hear from you to the contrary, we may expect to encounter a stranger whom you may suspect to be the right person if he wears a moustache."

"You would not like better to call here on Sunday, asking first for Catherine (Mrs. Dickens) and then for me? It is almost a positive certainty that there will be no one here but I between three and four. . . . make this suggestion knowing what your coincidences take place in streets when they are not wanted to happen; though I know them to be so unlikely, but I should not think of such a thing if any one but you were concerned. If you think you would not like to come here, make no change, I will come there."

"I cannot trust myself to begin afresh, or I should have my remembrances of our separation and think yours hard to me. I remember poor Anne writing to me once (in answer to some burst of low-spirited madness of mine) and saying 'My dear Charles, I really cannot understand Maria or venture to take the responsibility of saying what the state of her affection is'—and she added, I recollect, God bless her, a long quotation about gentleness and time. Well! Well!

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence should be sent to the editor, care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am secretly married to a college student, five years younger than I. While he continues his studies I work as a secretary and stenographer. I have a great concern. He is older than his 23 years would indicate, as he quit college and worked for several years. We cannot announce our marriage because his expenses are being paid by a father who has told him not to marry. He is a very nice fellow and he is very intelligent. After a period of wild life in which he drank considerably and around the country with girls and boys he has lost his desire for the old indulgence but the experience cost him his idealism and he is bitter and cynical. "There is no such thing as a true friend," "All men and women are faithless" are some of his tenets.

If I speak to a man he goes in and smokes and he is even jealous of my roommate who has been my intimate friend for years. He complains that I always put her first. He is not willing for me to be friendly toward people but having always had affectionate friends and an attentive family I can't feel as he does. It is fearfully aggravating to have someone trying to make you over. He would be perfectly satisfied if I gave up calling on my friends and were aloof and detached from everybody but him. I have had repeated arguments with him over this but to no avail. I have told him positively that I will not change my attitude toward my friends.

We are very congenial, enjoy the same books, the same sort of music and entertainment, if we could just get away from the old argument about other people we would be all right. I will be grateful for any advice you can offer me. R. J. J.

Answer: Any sort of secret relationship involves those who are party to it in no end of embarrassing predicaments. This is true of secret relationships in business, politics or society and particularly true when the hearts are involved. The deception, the lying, the implications which are necessarily part of the secret undermine character and create complexities that defy simplification. "Secretiveness says Nicholas Murray Butler, "without any actual falsehood, is one of the most effective instruments of deceit."

One of the first satisfactions love demand is to be let out into the light, to be acknowledged before the world. Denied this satisfaction, love gives the heart that harbors it no peace. This is one of the protective instincts of love. When a woman says to a man, "I belong to you" that may or may not settle the matter as far as he is concerned, but until she tells the world that she belongs to this man all other men regard her as being free and unattached. Their attitude toward her is necessarily different from what it would be if they knew she was married. Her husband knows this and that is another reason for the husband's highly sensitive frame of mind. He is accepting money for his education and deliberately deceiving one who furnishes it. He knows that common gratitude warrants his being frank with his sister and guided by his sense of justice he does her the kindness of being honest. He cannot believe in the integrity of others because he is not behaving honorably. He cannot trust friends or family because he has proven himself unworthy of the trust of his family and friends.

One thing will save this marriage from destruction though it may cost the young man his diploma (even then the price will be cheap): it is to bring the marriage out into the light. The college education is not important by comparison with the life's happiness of two individuals, not important by comparison with the corroding of two characters that deceptions they are forced to practice.

General Federation President Is Here for 38th State Convention

Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton, Mass., president of General Federation of Women's Clubs, who speaks on "The General Federation Marches On" at the opening session of Georgia Federation's 38th convention at the Biltmore Monday evening.

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, Editor of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Green and white banners, colors of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, waved a friendly welcome to Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton, Mass., when she arrived in Atlanta. The chief dignitary of General Federation of Women's Clubs is here to attend the thirty-eighth convention of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs and to make an address at the opening session on Monday evening in the ballroom of the hotel. Her subject will be "The General Federation Marches On."

The greatest interest naturally centers around the personality of diminutive Mrs. Poole, who has dark brown eyes and hair. In the array of achievements accredited to this energetic little woman, she is a never-ceasing wonder to her associates. Mrs. Poole never seems to grow weary, and her zest and enthusiasm never seem to flag.

Came Up From Ranks. She came up from the ranks to occupy the highest posts in the Massachusetts and General Federations of Women's Clubs. Her elevation to the presidency of the latter organization took place in June, 1932, and Mrs. Poole has been quite a factor in national affairs ever since her election. With her advent to office, and at the same convention where she was accorded the highest honor in the Brookhaven Dinner-Dance.

Announcement is made of the dinner-dance to be given at 8:30 o'clock Saturday evening, April 28, at Brookhaven Country Club. This affair will be a special feature of the spring season at this club and will assemble a large group of club members and their guests. Reservations may be made by telephoning the Capital City Club at Walnut 8221 or Brookhaven Club at Cherokee 2121.

four-day visit with Georgia clubwomen was preceded by an official visit to Tallulah Falls school, which is built upon the side of Cherokee mountain. She is the first president of General Federation of Women's Clubs to pay her official respects and to inspect the only school in the country owned and operated by women in a state federation, and to gain first-hand information concerning this educational project for underprivileged children.

Inasmuch as the federation's school is celebrating its silver anniversary this year, Mrs. Poole's visit will be chronicled among the notable events of Tallulah's silver jubilee year. The perseverance of Georgia clubwomen in bringing their school through the vicissitudes encountered in 25 years is best illustrated by the saying of Artemus Ward, the American humorist, who said "Consider the postage stamp, my son: its usefulness consists in sticking to one thing until it gets there."

Her attendance upon the four-day convention is an outstanding event in club circles, and one which the importance of the occasion warrants. Its address on Monday evening at the Biltmore will deal largely with the part women's clubs are taking in national affairs. She considers no organization is so well equipped, on account of the broadness of its program, to deal with present-day problems.

And Mrs. Poole should know whereof she speaks. Her leadership of so important and far-reaching an organization, composed of three million women, is definitely recognized in the United States, and in foreign countries where American women's clubs are established.

Tells How CARDUI Relieved Pains and Renewed Strength

"Before the birth of my children, I suffered so much from weakness in my back and pains in my side," writes Mrs. Joe Brown, of Greer, S. C. "I felt so worn-out, I was so nervous I could not rest at night. I read of Cardui and decided to take it. It strengthened me and stopped the pain. I do not know what I would have done without Cardui." . . . Cardui has been used by women for over 50 years. It is purely vegetable, harmless. Get a bottle, today, and try it! Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. —(adv.)

'Go Forward' Will Be Keynote Of Convention Opening Tonight

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, Editor of Georgia Federation.

With "Go Forward" adopted as the significant keynote of the thirty-eighth convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, the auspicious event opens Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the ballroom of the Biltmore hotel. The slogan will serve as an inspiration for hundreds of representative women representing 30,000 clubwomen, to march to a goal pertaining to the welfare of the state and nation.

Based Upon Extracted. The key thought of the program is based upon an extract from President Roosevelt's speech in which he said: "Civilization cannot go back; civilization must not stand still. It is our task to perfect, to improve, to alter when necessary, but in all cases to 'go forward'."

Credit for the building of the program and the selection of the slogan goes to the capable members of the committee, including Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth, in the capacity of chairman; Mrs. J. W. Gholston, of Comer, and Mrs. Harvie Gholston, Mrs. Murdoch Walker and Mrs. E. V. Carter, of Atlanta.

The presence of Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton, Mass., and Mrs. J. W. Gholston, of Comer, president of the state organization, will add luster to the four-day convocation and injected into a program of weighty deliberations will be a round of social affairs. Business sessions will be held at the Biltmore and clubwomen are coming to Atlanta at the invitation of Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Murdoch Walker is president.

Another important personage here for the convention is Mrs. Carl W. Illig, of Onset, Mass., chairman of the division of health in General Federation. During the World War she served in the medical department of the United States army at Fort McPherson. Through her training at the Sargent School for Physical Education, she became interested in the field of health, and was a director of physical education. Mrs. Illig specialized in roentgenology, the study of Roentgen or X-rays, which profession she followed for several years.

Appropriate Selection. Very appropriate indeed is the selection of Cadet First Lieutenant Polk Gholston, of the Riverside Academy in Gainesville, to sound the bugle call tonight, because he is the only son of the president of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. His selection as the bugler to arrest the attention of the audience is a distinct compliment to Mrs. Gholston, one of the most popular women ever elected to guide the destiny of the state federation.

Atlanta has been the scene of four conventions during the 38 years the state federation has been organized, the sixth, the sixteenth, the twenty-eighth and the thirty-eighth conventions having been held here. Georgia federation has 125 lines of approach to benefit human needs and among the decisive plans in the "go forward" program will be more thought centered upon the youth of the state and upon all that pertains to youth.

Mrs. Gholston will preside this evening, with Mrs. Walker, and the professional, always a colorful affair and composed of prominent clubwomen will enter the ballroom by music rendered by the Girls' High school band. Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, first lady of Georgia, will march with Mrs. Murdoch Walker, president of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. J. W. Gholston, president of the Georgia Federation, will march with Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of General Federation.

Monday evening's program will be featured by Girl Scouts carrying the United States flag; Camp Fire Girls bearing the Georgia flag; the federation banner carried by Mrs. Stillwell Robison, and Mrs. Murdoch Walker will call the convention to order. Mrs. John M. Slaton leads the salute to the flag and the remainder of the program features: Choral group, Business and Professional Woman's Club, with Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend, director; invocation by Rev. W. W. McMillen, D. D., rector of All Saints' Episcopal church; address of welcome by Hon. Wiley L. Moore, president of Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Hon. James L. Key, mayor, city of Atlanta; his excellency, Eugene Talmadge, governor of Georgia; Mrs. R. Murdoch Walker, Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs; response, Mrs. J. W. Gholston, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs; "My Georgia Land," led by choral group, Business and Professional Woman's Club, Mrs. Grace Lee Townsend, director; introduction of distinguished guests, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie; presentation of officers, past presidents and past directors, Mrs. J. B. Ritchie, chorus, "The Bells of St. Mary's," A. Emmett Adams; address, "The General Federation Marches On," Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president, General Federation of Women's Clubs.

George Federation officers are: President, Mrs. J. W. Gholston, Comer; vice president, Mrs. Albert Hill, Greenville; recording secretary, Mrs. E. M. Bailey, Acworth; recording secretary, Mrs. John Monaghan, Pelham; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, Athens; treasurer, Mrs. Morris Bryan, Jefferson; parliamentarian, Mrs. Howard McCall, Atlanta; general federation director, Mrs. W. W. Stark, Commerce; editor club page, Mrs. Bessie Stafford, Atlanta.

Miss Virginia Owens, of Albany, Weds Hollis Lanier at Quiet Home Ceremony

Lovely Mrs. Hollis Lanier, of Albany, Ga., who before her marriage yesterday was Miss Virginia Owens, only daughter of Mrs. Dawson Owens and the late Mr. Owens, and one of the most popular and admired members of Georgia society. Staff photo.

ALBANY, Ga., April 22.—Prominent social circles throughout the south will be interested in the announcement made today by Mrs. Dawson Owens, of this city, of the marriage of her daughter, Miss Virginia Owens, to Hollis Lanier, of Albany, formerly of Americus, Ga. The ceremony taking place quietly this morning at 9 o'clock at the home of the bride, Rev. J. N. Penick, pastor of the Methodist church in Albany, was the officiating minister and the occasion assembled only the members of the two families. Mr. Lanier, the bride left immediately after the service by motor for Washington, D. C. and New York. Upon their return they will make their home in Albany.

The bride wore a Hattie Carnegie model of navy blue crepe, with which she wore a three-quarter-length coat of navy blue wool trimmed with gray fur. Her hair was of navy blue grain ribbon and featuring the smart off-the-face style. Her shoulder bouquet was formed of deep purple orchids.

The bride and bridegroom are representatives of distinguished Georgia families, whose members have been prominently identified with this state's social and civic circles for generations. The bride's father, the late Dawson Owens, was a prominent figure in this state's banking circles and was also well known in south Georgia's pecan industry. He was president of the Albany Laundry Company and head of the Owens & Wilber Pecan Company, as well as president of the Albany Loan & Finance Company.

Mrs. Owens was, before her marriage, Miss Anne Felker, a member of well-known families in Plains and Americus. The late Mr. and Mrs. James Salter, of Plains, were the bride's maternal grandparents, and on her father's side she is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Owens, of Jackson, Miss. The bride's brothers are Iman Owens and Wilbur Owens, of Albany.

The former Miss Owens is listed among the most popular belles of this state and she has enjoyed wide popularity in a number of cities where she has visited. She attended Wesleyan College and she graduated from Ward-Belmont College, in Nashville, Tenn., where she was a member of the Tri-Ki Club. She is also a member of the Hospital Junior League, the membership of which is composed of a number of socially prominent young women in Albany. The bride is a widely travelled young woman, having spent a great deal of time in Europe, as well as in California and other sections of the United States.

Mr. Lanier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lanier, of Americus, who have been leaders in this section of the state for years. His mother was, before her marriage, Miss Mattie Hollis, of Americus, and his only brother is Charles Lanier, also of Americus. On his maternal side the bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Hollis, of Americus, and his paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lanier, of West Point, Ga.

The bridegroom attended the University of Georgia and he is a prominent member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He served with distinction and gallantry in the World War as first lieutenant in the 82nd division. Mr. Lanier has made his home for the past 12 years in Albany, where as vice president, he is in charge of the local branch of the American Grocery Company, of which his father is president.

Four pattern pieces—four different materials and just a little sewing and you have this pretty block full blown flower. The finished quilt has the effect of a bed of wide-open blossoms. As pictured they are all made of the same material, but of course each flower could be in a different fabric if preferred.

In pattern 5120 you will find the Block Chart, an illustration of the finished block in actual size, showing contrasting fabrics; accurately drawn pattern pieces; an illustration of the entire quilt; three-color schemes; step-by-step directions for making the quilt, and exact yardage requirements. Price of pattern, 10 cents.

Lois Is Getting Along Famously With John David.
By FLORENCE La GANKE.

John David was almost four months old. Lois could not help but note the ease with which she took care of him. It is true he was better physically than Ann had been, but even so, Lois had learned that every whimper did not mean an imperative summons to his bedside.

She had learned that even a well baby will "spit up" some of his milk after a too generous feeding or after he has been joggled too soon after nursing. She did not let him believe he was dying when he had a slight rise in temperature. Nor did she summon the doctor when his temper got the better of him and he cried until he was red in the face.

It is quite possible that the poise which Lois had acquired made her a better mother than being that she had a more comfortable child.

A fussy mother usually makes a fussy child. John David was getting a half teaspoon of cod liver oil every day. And he was given it when he was in the bath tub. That meant there were no cod liver oil stains on all his shirts and tinnies. Lois had learned that little trick while bringing up Ann.

At first he was given a few drops of cod liver oil. And he was given it when he was cooing and gurgling. Lois knew that if she gave it to him when he was crying he would associate the flavor of the oil with a disagreeable sensation. And when next it was presented he would rebel. An orange juice had been added to the diet, too. Nancy told Lois to be sure to give it to him after letting it acquire room temperature. He never has had anything hot or cold. Don't give him two new sensations at one time and

Patterson-Ransom.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Patterson and Otto Ransom was quietly solemnized Friday at the home of the Rev. Robert H. Lamkin in the Colquhoun apartments.

The bride was attractively gowned in white crepe with accessories to match. Her bouquet was of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Ransom left for Tennessee. Upon their return they will be at home for the present with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Patterson, at 86 Spruce street, N. E.

THE WILD BIRD

BY OWEN JOHNSON

INSTALLMENT XIV.

Over night she had slipped away from him. She was no longer his child to direct it. It was the damnable French blood of her mother and grandmother in her. The thing he had always feared and fought against. . . . This was a crisis different from all the other tests of his authority. There could be no riding roughshod—no beating down of her resistance. He would have to conciliate her, persuade by carefully considered arguments. Win her back by old affections. . . .

"What am I going to do about it?" he asked himself gloomily. Already he had blundered and, having blundered, been forced to yield. Even then she had not accepted the compromise. He would have to retreat from his ultimatum, retreat completely. Otherwise—"Your house," she had said. "The meaning was unmistakable. If he sought to dictate her friends as he had always done she would establish her own home. What was there to prevent her? Twenty-two and her own income. . . .

When he turned to Rance his thoughts became gloomier. If Barbara turned to Rance it would be a complete desertion. He resented his business, his youth and vitality, his abrupt frankness and contempt for subtlety, his confidence and his air of success. He had looked him in the eye and recognized that he was some one, a personality that could not be lightly dismissed, a man of serious ambitions. The things he wanted he would fight for with a tenacity that would be difficult to meet. For the first time, he was frightened. Would the man prove too strong for him?

He was not certain just how far the intimacy had progressed, but his intuitions warned him that the danger was real. The thing to do was to temporize. In October, he would take Barbara away to Egypt and up the Nile, a trip long planned. Get her away, temporize, swallow his pride, compromise, anything—but get her away. A man like Rance, with his contacts, would forget easily. . . .

He returned to the house with the intention of seeking Barbara, but he learned to his dismay that she had left and would not return for lunch. He sat down at the table and shut himself up in his silence, staring at the walls. Heavens, how old they all were. It was a prelude of what the house would be like if youth should depart from it. To sit down three times a day, three old people, waited upon by old Thomas—a house devoid of youth and loveliness, empty, silent, predestined!

The Sunday afternoon train left at 5. Barbara had never failed to drive him to the station. But today? What she had done, he didn't know. He didn't want to see her. He didn't want to see her. He didn't want to see her. . . .

"This is what it is coming to," he thought. "You can't stave it off much longer. Some day—sooner or later—you will be left like this alone." . . .

"And where is Barbara, Martin?" he asked. "She's been out all day, Martin." "Don't you think it strange, Martin?" He shook his head angrily. "She'll come," he said with decision, and went out and stood on the porch. . . .

And presently Barbara did come, but soberly and perfunctorily, without smiles, evading questions. "She didn't want to come," he said to himself. "She wants to be somewhere else, with him perhaps. Still, she did come." . . .

He went down and, taking her by the arm, led her to the seat under the great oak that stood at the top of the long descent to the river. He cleared his throat, waiting tensely. "You know this letter?" he said, in a low voice. . . .

"Why does Mr. Gregory Rance request an interview with me?" she said, in a low voice. . . .

Barbara went up to him. "Because Mr. Rance does not wish to come here under false pretenses," she said in a low voice. . . .

The letter crumpled in his convulsive grip. . . .

PEOPLE WILL THINK MORE OF YOU IF YOU KEEP STILL

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

LONG AGO IN EUROPE.

I—Giant Deer and Fierce Tigers. If you have looked at a flint arrowhead made by an old-time Indian, you have come face to face with the Stone Age.

Most Indians on this continent were living in the Stone Age—that is, in the time when people made tools and weapons from stone.

The Indians, however, were not in the custom of dwelling in caves; and if we want to find trace of the famous cave people, we must go to Europe. Strange animals lived during the Stone Age in Europe—for example, the Irish elk, a giant deer whose bones have been found in England and in central Europe, as well as in Ireland. This animal stood six feet high at the shoulders; and in some cases the highest tip of the antlers was more than 10 feet above the ground.

The Irish elk had to hold a great weight above his head. A pair of antlers located in modern times weighed 81 pounds, while the skull proper was found to weigh only five pounds and four ounces.

The spread of the antlers from farthest tip to tip, was as large as to be almost beyond belief—in one instance 10 feet and 20 inches.

The animals had sturdy necks, as we know from the neckbones in skeletons which have been dug up. Very likely they were fierce fighters; but the antlers must have proved too clumsy for the race of Irish elk died out.

Modern deer are not so large, but some large members of the family stand more than five feet at the shoulder.

Cave people must have tried to keep out of the way of the Irish elk until they made the great invention known as the bow and arrow. This invention appears to have been made rather late in the Stone Age.

Another fierce beast, which I have mentioned before, was the saber-tooth tiger. This animal is noted for its long upper canine teeth, which were an inch thick at the base and from five to six inches long.

A British cave, known as Kent's Cavern, has supplied proof that men lived during the same period as the saber-tooth tiger. Flint tools were found in the cave, along with the bones of the tiger.

In asphalt beds around Los Angeles, bones of saber-tooth tigers have been found; but those which lived in California were not so large as those in Europe.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

A General Weekly Review of Commerce and Industry Affecting the Greater Atlanta Trade Territory

Edited By JACK TUBBS

Jefferson Mortgage Co. Prepared To Finance, Refinance Atlanta Homes

EASY TERM PLAN MADE AVAILABLE TO AID ATLANTANS

Prompt Action Urged by D. W. Watson, Manager,
to Benefit from Present
Low Building Costs.

Standing squarely behind President Roosevelt's announced policy of fostering home building and modernization, the Jefferson Mortgage Company, with headquarters in the eleventh floor of the Standard building, is in position to end $5,000,000 on improved real estate in Atlanta.

Announcement of this offer—not merely "good business," not only a patriotic gesture—places the Jefferson Mortgage Company firmly on record as prepared to play an important role in relieving the economic tension of recent years and at the same time aiding in the re-employment of countless jobless persons.

"There is plenty of money available through the Jefferson Mortgage Company," asserts D. W. Watson, its manager, "for the building of modern homes for a period of from 12 to 15 years, repayable in either monthly or quarterly installments."

Through the years of his association with the Jefferson Mortgage Company, he has become a tried and true friend of the home owner. He is a staunch advocate of individual home ownership.

Knowing its innumerable economic aspects and the difficulties frequently facing the home builder, he has rendered invaluable advice and counsel to new builders on hundreds of occasions.

Thus, with an eye to the prospective builder's advantage, he warns of further impending advances in real estate and construction costs, and urges Atlantans to lose no time in planning and building their new homes.

Not only will such prompt action offer a distinct saving to the prospective home builder, Mr. Watson asserts, but it will put men to work and in this way play its small but important role in solving this most problem of recovery.

"We believe in Atlanta real estate."

Worthy of special note is the recently installed precision equipment, including the motor analyzer, a battery and starter motor tester, a generator and starter motor, a distributor synchronizing outfit, and equipment for armature repairs. This equipment, it is pointed out, has proved a vast saving, since its installation, in the long hours formerly required in some cases in checking automotive troubles.

The motor analyzer, for instance, will check compression in each cylinder, tell the condition of the rings, disclose whether the valves are properly seating, check coil and condenser at any speed, check the spark plugs, valves and ignition timing, and check the vacuum, which includes the carburetor and fuel pump.

The other new equipment, it is stated, has proven equally indispensable and of vast time-saving value. The service department is equipped also for precision alignment of wheels and axles, painting, glass replacement, brake testing and adjustment, battery repairs, greasing, fender work and washing and polishing.

Reached through a direct entrance from the Hunnicutt street side of the Harry Sommers, Inc., building, the service department is open from 7:30 a. m. until 5 p. m. daily except Saturdays, when it is closed at 1 p. m.

Owners of Chrysler-made cars are invited to visit the Harry Sommers, Inc., service department and to consult with its staff on any automotive problem.

Attention also is called by the Sommers organization to its spacious used car lot at the corner of Peachtree street and Forrest avenue, where a constant supply of thoroughly reconditioned used cars is on display at all times. The lot is capably staffed by courteous and well trained salesmen who will be glad to confer with the prospective automobile owner on his needs.

Beautification of home surroundings, not for the sake of beauty alone, but as a means of enhancing property values, is strongly advocated by W. M. Center, president of the Atlanta Aggregate Company, which maintains offices and plant at 721 Angier avenue, N. E.

"Property that is modern and permanently improved," says Mr. Center, "not only will command the admiration of those who view it, but will bring a considerably higher price if ever placed on the market."

The Atlanta Aggregate Company is prepared at any time to supply ready-mixed concrete for any purpose and in any designated quantity, Mr. Center states.

At this particular time of year, he asserts, countless Atlanta home owners are giving renewed attention to varied general repairs to their homes.

Precision Equipment, 'One-Shop' Service Feature Plant of Harry Sommers, Inc.

Here are shown a part of the large, highly trained experts who make up the staff of the Harry Sommers, Inc., service department, under the personal direction of D. C. Fuller, service manager. The service department not only is manned by a corps of skilled men, but is equipped to render every automotive service, obviating the necessity of sending cars elsewhere for any job.

Precision equipment and "one-shop" service, combined, have won for the service department of Harry Sommers, Inc., 446 Spring street, N. W., a widespread reputation as one of the most complete to be found in the south.

Automobile owners, especially owners of Chryslers, DeSotos, Dodges and Plymouths, have discovered in the Harry Sommers, Inc., shop a plant equipped to render any automotive service, from washing and polishing to the most intricate motor repair.

A staff of 30 skilled mechanics and other attendants, under the personal supervision of D. C. Fuller, service manager, is maintained to guarantee the high standard of workmanship for which the Harry Sommers organization has become widely known in the past. In addition, a completely equipped used car repair shop, with a staff of 12 trained men, supplements the new car service plant.

These service units also are under the direction of H. W. Robinson, vice president of Harry Sommers, Inc., and director of Chrysler service for the state.

Worthy of special note is the recently installed precision equipment, including the motor analyzer, a battery and starter motor tester, a gen-

BUSINESS MAKES ABNORMAL GAINS, INDEXES ADVANCE

Retail Trade, However, Is Perceptibly Slowed by Unseasonal Weather;
Production Spurts.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER.
NEW YORK, April 22.—(P)—Business barometers this week registered abnormal advances for this season.

Retail trade was somewhat hampered by cold, rainy weather, but weekly trade surveys indicated that this was merely encouraging retailers to look for continuance of active spring shopping well into early summer.

The week's statistics on electric power and steel production, as well as the movement of revenue freight, both registered better than seasonal gains. They boosted Moody's seasonally adjusted composite index for these three factors to the best level for 1934, at 75 per cent of the 1928 average.

In electric power production and freight movement, this represented a partial recovery from the rather sharp contraction of the previous week. Steel output continued to expand with the publication of "Steel" estimating output at 55 per cent of capacity, up 4 per cent from last week, and the best level since last July.

The curve of automobile production has shown some leveling off, but Cram's estimate for last week, at 91,664 units, showed a gain of 440 over the previous week. Automobile output has been exceeding retail sales by a good margin lately, but it is explained in the trade that dealers' stocks have been relatively low, and sales should quicken as soon as good weather arrives.

Many business leaders have been inclined to take a somewhat cautious attitude of late, in view of the natural tendency of industrial activity to slacken at this time. Nevertheless, business sentiment is said to have improved markedly in the past few weeks. One large financial institution recently conducted a private nationwide survey of business sentiment, and found a marked improvement in the state of mind in contrast with some weeks ago, when many executives were found in varying states of jitter over labor controversies, NRA codes, taxation, and other uncertain factors tending to make up the costs of doing business.

Probably the least favorable development of the past week was the sharp drop in the grain markets, and a moderate decline in cotton. This aroused considerable speculation as to possible government moves to restore the upward movement of commodity prices. Most well-informed quarters, however, doubted that inflationary steps of an unsettling character would be undertaken.

The steel industry found increased demand from several quarters last week, including the automobile makers, the railroads and the railway equipment manufacturers, structural steel users, and miscellaneous lines. At 55 per cent of capacity, it is estimated that the industry as a whole has emerged from red ink operations. The publication "Steel" said "it is becoming more evident that if all the steel tonnage contracted for prior to recent price advances is delivered before July 1, as the steel code prescribes, and as consumers apparently desire, steel output must for some time show a steady upward movement."

Many miscellaneous industrial lines are enjoying sustained or increasing business. The refrigerator manufacturers are experiencing the best volumes in their history. Makers of farm implements and fertilizers have been quickening their production. It is still a between seasons period for the textile mills, but in cotton textiles, production is still reported as well sustained, with many mills with enough business on their books to maintain current schedules until summer. Woolen mills continue fairly active on old orders. Shoe manufacturers are said to be receiving a fair volume of reorders, and some are said to be increasing their cuttings.

This view, taken from behind the customers' counter, shows the entrance to the new and commodious quarters of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company in the balcony floor of the Peachtree Arcade. The file in the foreground provides a ready reference to the status of any policy handled through this office, thus obviating any unnecessary delay in the agency's dealings with its clients.

In keeping with its customary high standard of service to its clients, and in order to make provision for steady business expansion, the Atlanta agency of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company now occupies new, commodious and carefully planned quarters in the second floor of the Peachtree Arcade. The offices previously were located at 220-224 Healey building.

Selection of the Peachtree Arcade suite—rooms 200-04—declares Luther E. Allen, general agent, was made only after a careful study of the agency's growing needs and of the advantages of the new location from the client's standpoint. Situated near the center of the downtown business section, overlooking Peachtree street, the building is easily and quickly accessible from all directions.

In connection with the moving of the offices, Mr. Allen points out that the agency here has registered an increase of 100 per cent to date this year over the same period of 1933, and that with a week remaining in April, there is every evidence that this will prove the biggest business month of the year to date.

The Peachtree Arcade suite, Mr. Allen asserts, was completely remodeled to fulfill the agency's requirements, and provides one of the finest "lay-outs" of its kind in the city.

The door to room 200—entered direct from the balcony floor—gives access to the customers' counter, and business office, where a capable and efficient staff of clerks conducts its normal dealings with the public. To the left of the customers' counter is a separate half-enclosed room where the agents may make their contacts with the office staff, and where a wall register indicates at a glance the names of the agents in the office at any time.

The office of the general agent, Mr. Allen, is reached through a door to the right of the customers' counter. In room 204, spacious quarters are provided for the staff of local agents, where they may transact their routine duties in close contact with their supervising agent, whose private office occupies one corner of the room. Special provision is made here for the "beginner" agent, whose desk, set aside from those of his fellows, stands close to the door of his superior. Thus, he is constantly under the directing hand of the supervising agent, by whom he is given sympathetic and thorough training for the work he has chosen for a career.

Adjoining the agents' room, overlooking Plaza Way, are three smaller rooms, providing a library and consultation rooms.

In the area between and connecting with both the agents' room and the general agent's office is a small consultation room where agent and client may deal in confidence, with a minimum amount of observation. Connected therewith is the agency's private examination room, where the necessary medical examinations may be made following the consultation. From the consultation room, the client may depart directly to the Arcade balcony, without retracing his steps through the agents' room.

Special provision has been made, says Mr. Allen, for medical examinations, doctors being on hand daily at the noon hours for the benefit of

DOWNWARD TREND PREVAILS IN WEEK ON COTTON MART

Disappointing Course of Foreign Exchanges Is Largely Responsible for Staple Action.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22.—(P)—Trading was somewhat more active in the cotton market during the past week, due largely to liquidation by the tired long interest and stop-loss orders were uncovered rather freely on the scale down. The general trend of prices were downward and the extreme spread between the high and low points was about 50 points.

The decline was due largely to the disappointing course of foreign markets, particularly Liverpool, where much disappointment seemed to exist as to the final phase of the Bankhead bill, which finally passed during the week. This disappointment was also felt in the American markets.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans future markets during the past week compared with a year ago.

	High	Low	Close	Last
May	11.88	11.42	11.62	7.88
July	11.96	11.49	11.68	7.53

clients who are engaged at other hours. Arrangements may be made, however, for examinations at any time.

An inter-office broadcasting system has been installed for the convenience of customers and agents, which facilitates the handling of telephone calls and other office routine.

Mr. Allen has issued an invitation not only to the company's clients, but its countless friends, to visit and inspect the agency's new quarters.

Tarzan lost no time in starting to investigate his prison. He felt carefully over the stone walls' surface, approaching closer and closer to his yet unseen prisoner. At last a voice sounded through the darkness, demanding, "What are you doing?"

"Who are you? When they brought you in I saw by their torches that you were neither Cethean nor an Athenian. We might as well be friends. My name is Phobog," said the man; "what's yours?" "Tarzan," replied the ape-man.

"We keep no white men prisoners. So you will be killed to furnish a pleasurable break in the monotony of the queen's life. Nemona is the most beautiful woman in the world; but, and Phobog lowered his voice to a whisper, "our Queen is a she-Satan."

"I accidentally stepped on God's tail," continued Phobog gloomily. "If she leaves the decision of my guilt or innocence to the encounter with a single man, I shall be free; for I am very strong. But I should have less chance against a lion."
